

UNIVERSITY of VIRGINIA

Institute On Aging

Elinor Ginzler
Senior Vice President for Livable Communities
AARP

Livable Communities: Opportunities for Successful Aging

Elinor Ginzler, a national expert on independent living for seniors, will discuss the elements of a livable community and the critical relationship between those elements and the ability to age successfully. The lecture will include a discussion on the inter-generational benefits of these elements and the importance of connectivity. Ginzler will highlight some of AARP's current work on mobility and housing.

Nov. 11, 2009

2:00 pm

(Reception to follow)

Doubletree Hotel
990 Hilton Heights Road
Charlottesville, Virginia

Register online at www.virginia.edu/aginginstitute or contact the Institute
uvaging@virginia.edu or (434) 243-5695.
Lecture and parking are free.

