BOARD OF VISITORS AGENDA ITEM SUMMARY

BOARD MEETING: October 3, 2008

COMMITTEE: Professorships and Namings

AGENDA ITEM: I.B. Establishment of the F. Palmer Weber-Smithfield Foods Professorship in Oncology Research in the School of Medicine

BACKGROUND: Palmer Weber, a native of Smithfield, was born in 1914. Diagnosed - as it turned out, mistakenly - with tuberculosis, he spent his teen age years in the Blue Ridge Sanatorium in Albemarle County. He took a B.A. from the College in 1934, the M.A. in 1938, and the PhD. in 1940, serving also as an instructor in Philosophy and Economics while he was a graduate student. He went to Washington when he finished the University and joined the New Deal as a member of the "Brain Trust." His years in Washington were an expression of his life-long commitment to racial and social justice.

He moved to New York in 1949 and founded a public relations consulting firm; among his clients was Arthur Garson, father of the University's Provost. He also began what became a very successful career as an investment analyst and, in due course, was made a Director of Smithfield Foods in his native town. Mr. Weber returned to Charlottesville in 1968 and became involved in a number of University activities and institutions, including the Lawn Society, the Miller Center, and the Carter Woodson Institute. He died in 1986, of cancer, as did his son David. Another son, Michael J. Weber, is Director of the University's Cancer Center.

Two professorships at the University bear Mr. Weber's name: the F. Palmer Weber Research Professorship in Civil Liberties and Human Rights in the School of Law, and the F. Palmer Weber Medical Research Professorship in the School of Medicine.

The Smithfield-Luter Foundation is the philanthropic wing of Smithfield Foods, Inc., and its chairman, Joseph W. Luter, III. Mr. Luter and the Foundation pledged $5million to the Cancer Center in July, 2005, to be used at the discretion of the Dean of the School of Medicine; the gift was made in memory of Mr. Weber. Part of this gift is being used to establish an endowed professorship in oncology research, with emphasis in the field of cancer immunoprevention and immunotherapy. It is proposed that the chair be named in honor of Mr. Weber and Smithfield Foods.

DISCUSSION: The President will propose the establishment of the F. Palmer Weber-Smithfield Foods Professorship in Oncology Research in the School of Medicine.

ACTION REQUIRED: Approval by the Board of Visitors

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE F. PALMER WEBER-SMITHFIELD FOODS PROFESSORSHIP IN ONCOLOGY RESEARCH IN THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

WHEREAS, F. Palmer Weber, a native of Smithfield, took his B.A., his M.A. and the Ph.D. from the University, completing his studies in 1940; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Weber joined the New Deal in Washington as an expression of his life-long commitment to social and racial justice; and

WHEREAS, after a successful postwar career in New York as a public relations consultant and investment analyst, Mr. Weber returned to Charlottesville in 1968 and was an active supporter of several University institutions until his death, of cancer, in 1986; and

WHEREAS, Joseph W. Luter, III, Chairman of Smithfield Foods, and the Smithfield-Luter Foundation have committed $5million, in memory of Mr. Weber, to the University of Virginia Cancer Center, to be used at the discretion of the Dean of the School of Medicine for the benefit of the Cancer Center; and

Dr. Kaplan in 1998 agreed to fund a professorship in Cardiology at the School of Medicine. By subsequent agreement, the chair is to include the names of his parents, Albert M. and Kate L. Kaplan. COMMITTEE: Professorships and Namings

AGENDA ITEM: III.A. Naming the Victor and Sono Elmaleh
East Wing of Campbell Hall

BACKGROUND: The new east wing of the School of Architecture, to be dedicated later this month, will be the new face of the School and will shift the main entrance from a confusing place on the north side of Campbell Hall to a point facing Rugby Road on the east side. It is a very handsome addition to the building and will house exhibition space and rooms for reviewing student work, as well as serving as the principal entrance to the School.

The School of Architecture proposes that this structure be named the Victor and Sono Elmaleh East Wing in honor of two generous and long time benefactors of the School.

Victor Elmaleh was born in Morocco in 1918 and immigrated to the United States with his parents as a small child a few years later. He took a B.A. in Architecture from the University in 1942 and practiced architecture for several years before embarking on a career in international trade. He is now the Chairman and CEO of World-Wide Holdings Corporation in New York, a firm which sells and develops commercial real estate nationwide. He is an accomplished artist and his abstract watercolors and collages have been shown in a number of galleries. An exhibition of his work is on display this month in Campbell Hall.

Mr. Elmaleh commissioned an hour-long documentary, "Mr. Jefferson and His University," as a commemoration of the 250th anniversary of Jefferson's birth, and he and Mrs. Elmaleh have been generous patrons of the arts in New York.

Mr. Elmaleh's wife, Sono Osato Elmaleh is a former ballerina, having danced with the Ballets Russes de Monte Carlo and the American Ballet Theatre, as well as on Broadway. She founded the Sono Osato Scholarship Program in Graduate Studies to help support former dancers in graduate studies in the professions as well as in the liberal arts.

WHEREAS, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Elmaleh has provided for the construction of the East Wing at Campbell Hall, a structure which will be the new main entrance to the School of Architecture;

AGENDA ITEM: III.B. Naming the Albert Russel Erskine, Jr. Room in the Harrison Institute/Small Special Collections Library

BACKGROUND: Albert Russel Erskine, Jr. was born in Memphis in 1911 and took degrees from Southwestern College there and from Vanderbilt University. A friend of several of the great literary figures at Vanderbilt in those days, he taught at Louisiana State University and worked both for The Southern Review there and for the LSU Press. He later worked for The Saturday Review of Literature and for several of the important New York publishing houses, most notably Random House. In this capacity, he worked with a number of well known writers, including William Faulkner, Robert Penn Warren, Eudora Welty and Karl Shapiro. He was noted as a major New York editor and publisher, as well as a scholar.

Mr. Erskine died in 1993.

Mr. Erskine's widow, Marisa B. Erskine, and his daughter, Silvia F. Erskine - who took two degrees from the School of Architecture - have made important gifts of his books and papers to the University. UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

BOARD MEETING: October 3, 2008

COMMITTEE: Professorships and Namings

AGENDA ITEM: III.C. Naming the UVA Hospital Auxiliary Hospitality House

BACKGROUND: The University of Virginia Hospital Auxiliary in 1981 opened a hospitality house, which is to say lodging for patients' families who have come from out of town and who could not otherwise afford it. The Auxiliary's hospitality house has moved several times over the years, each time relocating to larger quarters. As services expanded and more space was needed, the Medical Center took over management of the enterprise and began supporting operating expenses. The Hospital Auxiliary continues to support the hospitality house and in fact has made it its principal benefaction: the Auxiliary has donated more than $1million since the house was established in 1981, and it has pledged an annual donation of $67,000 over the next four years to support the new hospitality house on 14th Street.

The hospitality house in the early 1990s was named the Alex Sawyer Hospitality House in memory of Mr. Sawyer, who was the Hospital Administrator for 18 years and who was a strong supporter of the concept of the house.

Because of the Auxiliary's role in establishing the hospitality house, it is proposed that it be named the University of Virginia Hospital Auxiliary Hospitality House. Mr. Sawyer, however, will not be forgotten: a garden will be developed on the Hospitality House property and named in his memory, and his painted portrait will be hung at the main entrance of the new building.

DISCUSSION: The President will propose the naming of the University of Virginia Hospital Auxiliary Hospitality House.

ACTION REQUIRED: Approval by the Board of Visitors

NAMING OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA HOSPITAL AUXILIARY
HOSPITALITY HOUSE

WHEREAS, the University of Virginia Hospital Auxiliary in 1981 established a hospitality house for the lodging of out-of-town relatives of patients in the Hospital; and

WHEREAS, the hospitality house has grown both in size and in the service it offers since 1981, much of it financed by gifts from the Hospital Auxiliary; and

WHEREAS, the Hospital Auxiliary has made a commitment of substantial annual support of the new hospitality house on 14th Street; and

WHEREAS, the current name of the facility is the Alex Sawyer Hospitality House, in memory of the Hospital Administrator who supported the concept of the hospitality house over many years;

RESOLVED, the Board of Visitors directs that the hospitality house be named the University of Virginia Hospital Auxiliary Hospitality House, and that the garden to be developed on the property be named in memory of Mr. Sawyer; and

RESOLVED FURTHER, the Board expresses its appreciation to the Hospital Auxiliary for its efforts over the years on behalf of patients' families and for its generous and continuing support of the Hospitality House.

BOARD OF VISITORS AGENDA ITEM SUMMARY

BOARD MEETING: October 3, 2008

COMMITTEE: Professorships and Namings

AGENDA ITEM: III.D. Naming the Charles L. Brown Pathway

BACKGROUND: The late Charles L. Brown was a most distinguished alumnus of the School of Engineering. He took a degree in Electrical Engineering in 1943 and after service in the Navy during the Second World War, joined AT&T. He rose through the ranks to become CEO and Chairman of the Board from 1979 until 1986: AT&T at the time was one of the largest companies in the world.

Mr. Brown was a Member of the Board of Visitors, and of the Board of the Trustees of the Alumni Endowment Fund; he was the Chair of the University's New York Area Campaign in 1984 and Vice Chairman of the University's Capital Campaign which ended in 2000. His interests and support extended over a range of endeavors at the University, including the Engineering School, the College, the School of Architecture, the Shannon Center for Advanced Studies, and the Jefferson Scholars Foundation. His benefactions were always thoughtful and carefully considered.

Mr. Brown died in 2003.

Mr. Brown's widow, Anne Lee Saunders Brown, has endowed, in his name, both the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering at the Engineering School and the University's Science and Technology Library. Recently, she has given funds for the construction of a brick walkway in the Darden Court at the Engineering School, a space at the center of the School, adjoining Thornton Hall, which is used for ceremonial occasions - such as the conferring of diplomas at Finals - and is a true crossroads in the daily coming and going of faculty and students. Mrs. Brown's gift includes funds for landscaping Darden Court.

It is proposed that the walkway be named the Charles L. Brown Pathway.

DISCUSSION: The President will propose the naming of the Charles L. Brown Pathway.

ACTION REQUIRED: Approval by the Board of Visitors

NAMING OF THE CHARLES L. BROWN PATHWAY

WHEREAS, the late Charles L. Brown, who was a native of Richmond and who took a B.S. in Electrical Engineering from the School of Engineering in 1943, was one of the most distinguished alumni of the University of his era; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Brown was not only a generous benefactor of a number of institutions at the University, but rendered great service, notably as a Member of the Board of Visitors and as an active and effective volunteer and executive in two of the University's Capital Campaigns; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Brown's widow, Anne Lee Saunders Brown, also has been a generous friend and benefactor of the University; and

WHEREAS, Mrs. Brown has given funds for the construction of a brick walkway in the Darden Court at the School of Engineering, and has provided for landscaping of the area;

RESOLVED, the Board of Visitors names the new pathway the Charles L. Brown Pathway and directs that a suitable plaque be placed to mark this naming. The wording of the plaque shall read as follows:

This pathway is in memory of
CHARLES L. BROWN
1921 - 2003
Electrical Engineering 1943
Member, University of Virginia's Board of Visitors 1986 - 1990
Vice Chair, Campaign for the University of Virginia 1993 - 2000

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA
BOARD OF VISITORS AGENDA ITEM SUMMARY

BOARD MEETING: October 3, 2008

COMMITTEE: Professorships and Namings

AGENDA ITEM: V. Report on the Bocock and Hitz Public
Service Scholarship Fund

The President will report on the Bocock and Hitz Public Service Scholarship Fund, established recently to support students who are pursuing studies leading to careers in public service. No action is required of the Board.

Frederic Scott Bocock of Richmond and Frederick P. and Mary Buford Bocock Hitz of Charlottesville have made generous pledges to establish a scholarship fund to support students in the Batten School who intend to pursue careers in public service. Mr. Bocock, a 1954 alumnus of the College, and Mr. Hitz, an alumnus of Princeton University and the Harvard Law School, are brothers-in-law and have long been strong and vocal advocates of public service.

Mr. Bocock is Vice Chairman of Scott & Stringfellow, the Richmond financial firm founded by his family, and is a grandson of Frederic Scott, who was Rector of the University and who gave the money for the building of Scott Stadium. Mr. Bocock's father, John Holmes Bocock, was well known both as a student at the University, where he was a member of the Seven Society, and as a lawyer in Richmond.

Mr. Hitz is married to Mr. Bocock's younger sister, Mary Buford Bocock. His public service has included stints in the Central Intelligence Agency, the Department of State and the Department of Defense. Most recently, he was Inspector-General of the CIA. He has published two books on espionage and he has offered extremely popular courses on the history of espionage in the College and in the Law School, as well as at Princeton, and he lectures frequently on the subject, always - if it is a student audience - putting in a plea to his listeners to consider careers in public service. Mrs. Hitz has published a fascinating memoir of her mother, Elizabeth Scott Bocock, who was a well known figure in Richmond.

The Bocock and Hitz Scholarship Fund is the first gift - outside of Mr. Frank Batten's establishing gift - to be made in support of the Batten School.

In making the gift, Mr. Bocock and Mr. and Mrs. Hitz have stated that the Bocock and Hitz Public Service Scholarship Fund "honors members of the Bocock and Hitz families, their respective affiliations with the University of Virginia and their careers and beliefs which strongly manifest a commitment to public service. Specifically, this Fund honors Willis Henry Bocock, John Holmes Bocock, Bessie Bocock Carter and Frederic Scott Bocock as well as Frederick Porter Hitz, his wife and Frederic Bocock's sister, Mary Buford Bocock Hitz, and Judge William Hitz."
