BOARD MEETING: September 19, 2013

COMMITTEE: Student Affairs and Athletics

AGENDA ITEM: I.B. Role of Student Affairs in Promoting Community Engagement Opportunities

ACTION REQUIRED: None

BACKGROUND: From the founding of the University, public service has been integral to the U.Va. undergraduate student experience. Building on Jefferson's vision of developing citizen leaders for the Commonwealth and the world, the Division of Student Affairs works to ensure students have access to high quality public service opportunities within and beyond the University. Each year, over 80% of U.Va. students participate in some form of public service in their local, national, and global communities. That service spans a continuum from volunteerism to in-depth community partnerships and from weekly service to extended internships and research projects. Data indicate that these experiences have positive effects on key outcomes such as students' career selection, admission to graduate school, cultural awareness, leadership and teamwork skills, communication, and problem solving skills, among others.

Julie Caruccio has served as Director of Student Affairs Community Engagement in the Office of the Vice President and Chief Student Affairs Officer since 2011, and in August was named an associate dean of students with a focus on the School of Engineering and Applied Science. She serves on the on-call team and assists with crisis management, as well as general student advising and support. Ms. Caruccio also directs all public service activities within the Division of Student Affairs and develops partnerships with faculty focused on community engagement. Prior to her current role, she served as Assistant to the Vice President and Chief Student Affairs Officer, as Special Assistant to the Honor Committee, and as Director of the Jefferson Fellows Program at the Jefferson Scholars Foundation. She earned her Ph.D. from Curry in 2013, her M.Ed. from the University of Vermont in 2000, and her B.A. from the College of Arts and Sciences in 1994.
DISCUSSION: In the past three years, partnerships with faculty have been a particular focus for Divisional efforts, with the goal of expanding students' awareness of and access to opportunities to apply what they are learning in the classroom to real-world problems in community contexts. Several promising models have been developed and will be shared with the Board.
