

JONATHAN D. MORENO

Emily Davie and Joseph S. Kornfeld
Professor of Biomedical Ethics,
Director, Center for Biomedical Ethics

Brave New Worlds: The Ethics of Genetic Research

February 21, 2003 — Fairfax County Government Center

wwwweb

The University of Virginia serves more than one million people every year through more than 400 public service and outreach programs. For more information about outreach at UVa, visit <http://www.virginia.edu/outreachvirginia/>, an interactive web-based listing of public service programs searchable by region, interest, audience, or type of program. Some programs listed in the database include the following:

Adult Education Opportunities in Northern Virginia

The Northern Virginia Center of the School of Continuing and Professional Studies distributes a monthly email newsletter to interested citizens containing the latest information about new programs, upcoming courses, and free events.

Faculty Experts in the Press

A searchable database of quotes from U.Va. Faculty and Staff offering their expertise in media stories. Includes a link to the full story in which the quote appeared when available.

Developing Healthcare Ethics Program (DHEP)

This annual six-day course is designed to facilitate or strengthen the implementation of an ethics program within healthcare organizations.

The President's Council on Bioethics

<http://www.bioethics.gov/>

The Center for Biomedical Ethics at the University of Virginia

<http://hsc.virginia.edu/medicine/inter-dis/bio-ethics/home.htm>

Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University

<http://www.georgetown.edu/research/kie/>

American Society for Bioethics and Humanities

<http://www.asbh.org/>

bibliography

Buchanan, Allen (author), et al. From Chance to Choice: Genetics and Justice. Cambridge University Press: Paperback, June 2002

Holland, Suzanne (editor), et al. The Human Embryonic Stem Cell Debate: Science, Ethics, and Public Policy. MIT Press: Paperback, September 2001

Mehlman, Maxwell J. and Jeffrey R. Botkin. Access to the Genome: The Challenge to Equality. Georgetown University Press: Paperback, April 1998

Rothstein, Mark A. (editor). Genetic Secrets: Protecting Privacy and Confidentiality in the Genetic Era. Yale University Press: Paperback, December 1997

Stock, Gregory (editor), et al. Engineering the Human Germline: An Exploration of the Science and Ethics of Altering the Genes We Pass to Our Children. Oxford University Press: Hardcover, February 2000

Sulston, John and Georgina Ferry. The Common Thread: A Story of Science, Politics, Ethics and the Human Genome. Joseph Henry Press: Hardcover, October 2002

speaker

Professor Moreno is a member of the National Human Research Protections Advisory Committee, of the Board on Health Sciences Policy of the Institute of Medicine (National Academy of Sciences), and of the Council on Accreditation of the Association for the Accreditation of Human Research Protection Programs. He is also a bioethics advisor for the Howard Hughes Medical Institute and Genomics Collaborative, Inc., a Faculty Affiliate at the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University, and a Fellow of the Hastings Center and the New York Academy of Medicine.

Mr. Moreno has published around 200 papers and book chapters, and is a member of several editorial boards. He is currently preparing a co-edited textbook on human research ethics and an edited anthology on ethical issues in the post-9/11 environment, entitled Bioethics After the Terror (MIT Press, 2003). He is a commentator and columnist for ABCNews.com and is a frequent guest on news and information programs, including ABC World News Tonight, NBC Nightly News, MSNBC, and The McLaughlin Group. He is often cited in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, Time, and other national publications.

He has held full-time faculty appointments at Swarthmore College, the University of Texas at Austin, George Washington University and the SUNY Health Science Center at Brooklyn. He has also held appointments at the University of Pennsylvania Center for Bioethics, the Children's National Medical Center, and has been a Special Expert in the Department of Clinical Bioethics at the Warren Magnuson Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.

Mr. Moreno has advised numerous federal and government agencies. During 1994-95 he was Senior Policy and Research Analyst for the President's Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments. He was a senior consultant for the former National Bioethics Advisory Commission and has advised the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy. Moreno received his bachelor's degree from Hofstra University in 1973, with highest honors in philosophy and psychology. He was a University Fellow at Washington University in St. Louis, receiving his doctorate in philosophy in 1977, and was a Mellon Post-Doctoral Fellow in cooperation with the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies. In 1998 he received an honorary doctorate from Hofstra.

