The Robertson Media Center’s Digital Media Lab, a collaborative effort between ITC the UVa Library, offers equipment and support for the digitization and editing of images, sound and video. DML staff assist students with digital projects and help faculty prepare electronic course materials.

Highlights

The Tibetan and Himalayan Digital Library, with help from The Digital Media Lab, is building a large, web-accessible data model involving a vast array of media types including video, images, GIS maps, 3D models, QTVR and an archival media database.
