Quick Guide to the FY2000 Report

- The University of Virginia has grown from $92 million in sponsored programs awards in 1990 to $209 million in FY2000, an increase of 127%, and from $136 million in 1995 to $209 million in 2000, an increase of 54%.

- The ten year numbers are as follows:

  1990: $92 million
  1991: $107 million
  1992: $122 million
  1993: $128 million
  1994: $135 million
  1995: $136 million
  1996: $141 million
  1997: $159 million
  1998: $163 million
  1999: $187 million
  2000: $209 million

- The average increase per year over this period is about 8.4%.

- The University received $209 million in awards in FY00. This represents an Increase of 11.2% over FY99.

- Of the total, $167 million (80%) and $42 million (20%) were awarded in direct and indirect costs respectively.

- The School of Medicine received $121 million, or 58% of the total.

- The ten largest departments in the University were:

  Internal Medicine ($28.5 million)
  Microbiology ($9.9 million)
  Cell Biology ($9 million)
  Biochemistry ($8.8 million)
  Chemistry ($8.3 million)
  Physiology ($8 million)
  Materials Sciences ($6.8 million)
  Neurology ($6 million)
  Biology ($5.8 million)
  Environmental Sciences ($5.6 million)

- The largest awarding sector was the federal government, which awarded a total of $146 million, or 70% of the total amount awarded.

- Of the federal agencies, DHHS ($92 million) was the University’s largest sponsor, accounting for 44% of the total funding, and 63% of total federal funding.

- Next largest sector was industry ($34 million), accounting for 16% of the total.

- Third largest sector was foundations ($23 million) accounting for 11% of the total.

- The fourth largest sector was state funding ($7.5 million), accounting for 3% of the total.

- The total number of proposals submitted in 2000 was 3159, up from 3101 in FY99.

- A total of $371 million was requested. This represents an Increase from $339 million in FY99, a percentage increase of 9%.

- Of the funds requested, 74% was from federal sources.