Teaching Philosophy

I think to teaching is to touching. I want to change my student’s attitude to positive in most of their life and give them more opportunities to connect with Chinese culture even multicultural to widen their vision in this world.

I believe that if there is no learning there is no teaching. So I like to talk with my students after class to see if I can help them somehow in Chinese learning, or what else they need me to do for them. Once the students feel the beauty of Chinese language and the interests of learning Chinese culture, they will surely pay more attention to learn with me. I also like to take them to the immersion environment to use what they learned in class and I believe that interests and useful knowledge will be always the most important element in learning procession. I love to be the bridge for my students from school to the society.

To be a good teacher is not easy, but I have a lot of excellent teachers helped me in my life of study experience. I have the responsibility to help more students like me who was struggling with the life or have no clue for their future to find the right direction.
